Philosophy/Expectations: This course will operate on the philosophy that active engagement with material fosters quality learning. There will be ample opportunity for in-class discussion, both in small groups and with the entire class. Students are expected to read assigned text prior to class and be prepared to participate in class discussions to maximize the learning experience. The provided course calendar indicates when topics will be covered.

Attendance:

Attendance is required to maximize learning experience and receive good grade. Points will be awarded for regular class attendance and active participation in class discussion. Attendance grades are not based simply on physical presence in the classroom. Each student is required to come to class fully prepared to participate in a discussion of assigned readings. You may be called on randomly to answer questions or participate in the discussion. Absences may result in lost learning opportunities, including possible extra credit opportunities. If you know in advance you will miss a class period due to school related activity please notify instructor to make arrangement for make-up project or quiz you may have missed.

The instructor reserves the right to determine the weight of tardiness or early departure from class as it relates to absences. A student who is absent in three class sessions without instructor's approval will not be eligible for attendance and participation points (100).

Examinations: There will be 4 mid-semester exams and one final examination. Mid-semester exams will be administered in the Testing Center (you will be required to present your student ID to take the exam) between the hours of 9:00 am and 9:00 pm Monday through Friday and 2:00 pm to 9:00 pm Saturday and Sunday over a three-day period. Please see the Testing Center Website for further information and to verify hours of operation. The exams will consist of multiple choice, short answer items and essay questions from the material presented prior to the test.

Late Work.

It should be noted that late work, if it is accepted, will receive a 50% grade reduction from the assigned points. DO NOT wait until the last minute to complete your reports. Allow some extra time for bad printers, dog ate it, etc.

Lectures:

All lectures will follow the content as indicated in the proposed schedule. Lectures will consist of PowerPoint presentations, watching short video clips, and discussions.

For you to benefit from this course, it is IMPERATIVE that you read the assigned chapters PRIOR to class. Approximately six pop quizzes will be administered during the course.

It is also assumed by the instructor that your reading ability is at the collegiate level. The instructor will NOT lecture by covering each page in the text. That is the student's job. However, several aspects from each chapter will usually be discussed. You are encouraged to ask questions, for that is how we learn.

Note:

The study of human behavior includes subject areas, which may be considered controversial and may antagonize your personal value system. The responsibility of the instructor will be to present these areas with factual, balanced objectivity and respect, yet still carefully addressing the controversial nature of the issues. It is recognized that the instructor will present biases and perceptions, despite attempts to be objective. The student of psychology should be aware of this and should formulate opinions based on elements of critical thinking. It is the responsibility of the student to recognize divergence of thought as a healthy condition of inquiry and to not necessarily accept different perceptions as reality.

Academic Honesty: As stated in the DSU Student Handbook; “Academic dishonesty in any form will not be tolerated at DSU (Academic Discipline Policy, 3.34)” including cheating, and plagiarism. These acts of academic dishonesty are strictly prohibited.

Disruptive Behavior Policy: If your conduct in class affects the learning atmosphere of the class, the instructor reserves the right to drop you from the class. This will happen using the following procedure:

Verbal warning that your behavior is negatively affecting the class

Written warning that you are negatively affecting the class

Removal from the class. The instructor will inform the student in writing of this, along with contact information for a supervisor of the instructor so the student can appeal if desired.

Policy for Absences Related to University Functions: For students, such as student athletes who travel as official representatives of the university, absences due to university functions will not negatively affect the student’s grade. The student is required to provide the instructor with a schedule of days that will be missed, will be required to negotiate any scheduled work ahead of time with the instructor

Disability Statement

If you suspect or are aware that you have a disability that may affect your success in the course you are strongly encouraged to contact the Disability Resource Center (DRC) located in the North Plaza Building. The disability will be evaluated and eligible students will receive assistance in obtaining reasonable accommodations. Phone # 435-652-7516
